

Morfe is trying to get his classes to be as close to bus stops as possible so he doesn't have to walk much at all.

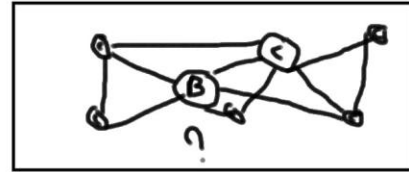

However, Morfe doesn't know where the bus stops are, or how far any of the classes are to those bus stops

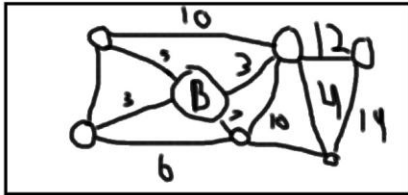

Thanks to the Class Map App, he not only knows where the bus stops are in relation to his classes, but how far of a walk it is from the nearest bus stop to his class!

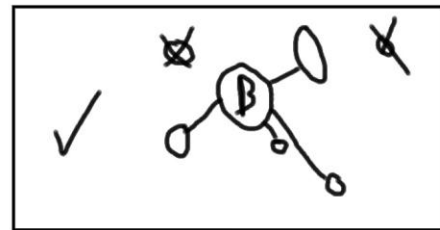

Shade is signing up for his classes

Shade doesn't know how far his classes are from his business sites, making it hard for him to determine his new schedule

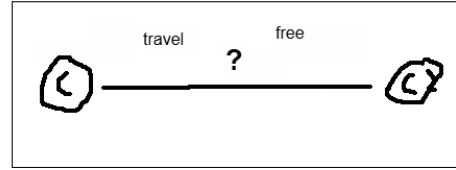

He pulls his campus up on the Class Map App, and looks to see just how long of a walk each class will be not only from each other, but his business locations

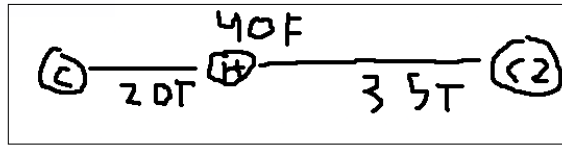

He can now make better decisions as to what classes he can pick, without the chance of not being able to access his customers for the entire day!

Smaug is selecting her classes, and she wants them spread out so she has time throughout the day to do her work, so she can get to her main hobby, Designing

However, Smaug doesn't know how much of that "free" time will be actually free, or how much of it will be spent having to travel!

Thanks to the Class Map App, she knows just how much travel time is actually required for her classes, and how much free time she'll have, before the semester start!
